Coote Asks Why Social Creditors Oppose Him

U. F. A. Group Always in Fore-front for Advanced Legislation and S. C. Principles

George G. Coote, U.F.A. candidate for Macleod Federal constituency, gave evidence of his achievements as a member of the "Ginger" group in the House of Commons in a review of his five years' activities since his election in 1930, in addressing an electors' meeting here on Friday.

It was the most spirited election address he has made, for he showed how he had championed the cause of the farmers and workers in getting his interest and income bills through the House in the face of stiff opposition of the "Fifty Big Shots" cohorts.

Dealing with advances made to him by Social Creditors to run as their candidate, he stated he had been a champion of monetary reform and Social Credit ever since his election in 1921, before Douglas had even been advanced. He had told a committee of Social Creditors that he had been elected three times under the U.F.A. banner; every year at their convention they had passed a resolution expressing their confidence in him, and he would not let the expediency forsake the organization whose loyalty and support had elected him since he first went to Ottawa.

He had risked defeat before, he would risk it again rather than go back on the U.F.A. organization, for he had served his constituents to the utmost of his ability and was willing to be judged on his record. His party started something in 1923 towards financial reform, and he would like to be a member of the House to see his policies come into effect.

Responsibility for present conditions goes back to the voters who placed the government in power. He had long protested against the present system. In 1922, his first session, a request was made that an enquiry be made into the monetary and banking system, and many amendments to the Bank Act had been suggested. Through the efforts of the U.F.A. group, it was the first time there had been a debate on the Bank Act. They also were the cause of bringing out Major Douglas from England in 1924 to appear before the House of Commons, and had done more than any other organization to bring forward the benefits of Social Credit. If the people of Canada knew what had been done by the U.F.A., they would be given much greater credit than by having candidates nominated to oppose them.

Among the reforms brought about by the U.F.A. were old age pensions, commission of enquiry into Banking and Currency, establishment of a Central Bank, reduction of interest on mortgages and policy loans, for which

COMING!

The Iron Duke

Mr. G.G. Coote, M.P.

will speak over radio station CFCH, Calgary, on

from 9.30 to 9.45 p.m.

Tune in! Hear all sides of the story.

He had received many commendatory letters; and many other benefits which it was impossible to recapitulate in the space of an hour and a half. Five years had been spent in serving the people faithfully and well.

Mr. Coote made pointed reference to the slump conditions of this area, stating that every time he came to the Crow's Nest Pass he wished he were a financial director so that he could clear out some of the unfit dwellings and erect proper homes instead. There was plenty of work to be done by a housing commission in this area, and this is a work which might well be allotted to working men instead of keeping them in relief camps.

It was a disgrace for men of seventy years and over to be working, and his scheme of pensioning men at 55 would save a great deal of work for younger men. The stupidity of Canadians was past all understanding in many respects, especially when we see men working with picks and shovels on public work which could be done with greater economy by improved methods. It would furnish employment to 100,000 men for a year to paint the buildings in Canada, a work which is badly needed.

In closing he stated he had been a pioneer in monetary reform, had always worked for it, and had tried to popularize Social Credit. It was very unpopular, and when Bill Irvine was told in the House of Commons that if he could introduce a scheme of Social Credit, he would be King of Canada. The U.F.A. had undoubtedly right to be known as early champions of Social Credit.

Though he had been asked to run as a 100% Social Creditor, he had already accepted nomination as a U.F.A. candidate, the party under whose banner he had been elected since 1921. He replied to the S. C. committee it would be unethical to desert his party, and he saw no reason why he should resign from a party which had always pioneered for the workers. He would stand by his record without fear or favor, as he had always served the people 100%. His party was willing to co-operate with any other party which had the interests of the common people at heart.

The meeting was presided over by Mayor Pattinson, who expressed his admiration for the principles which Mr. Coote had fought for in the House of Commons, and hoped for his re-election on October 14.

Mr. W. H. Hunter, of Calgary, in a 15-minute address, and as a friend of Mr. Coote for 25 years, paid tribute to his sterling qualities as a Christian gentleman and as a representative of the people, and termed it a tragedy that Social Creditors should nominate a candidate against one who had through his fourteen years as member for Macleod worked solely in the interests of the people of his constituency.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks proposed by Mr. W. H. Haydon and W. White, and the singing of the national anthem.

DIFFICULT AND DANGEROUS

The new government, like all new governments, will be much more seriously handicapped by its friends than opposed by its enemies. Job-seekers in hordes will descend on Mr. Aberhart, and it will be difficult and distasteful work turning them all down but any other policy would lead to disaster. With conditions as they are, any increase in the provincial civil services is financially impossible, and any man or woman who seeks a job under the new government will prove that he or she has not the interests of his province or of the Aberhart party at heart.—Red Dore Advocate.

Premier Bennett Wins Against Vancouver Mob

Proved Himself More Than a Match for Hoodlums Who Tried to Prevent Him Speaking

Press despatches recently gave full information of the rowdism of "Hooligans" who, at the largest political meeting in Vancouver's history, at which it is estimated from ten to fourteen thousand people were present, tried to prevent the Premier from speaking on the issues of the day.

The Vancouver Province commented editorially on the incident as follows: It was a shameful thing to subject any man to the necessity of talking against the Niagara of bores and shams that poured from the Arena galleries during the first twenty minutes or so of the Prime Minister's address. It was doubly shameful to subject to this necessity Canada's most distinguished citizen, an aging man, a man who recently sacrificed his health in the service of his country, and a man who could probably find many things to do more important and more useful than pitting his voice and his energies against a howling mob.

It was only Mr. Bennett's determination and courage that carried him through. A lone man against a thousand, he talked back to his opponents. He gave blow for blow. And finally, by sheer persistence, he wore them down. The effect was to give the effort won the Prime Minister the admiration of thousands present in the Arena and listening on the air. No doubt it won votes for his candidates. But the strain must have been tremendous. And it was all so unnecessary, had the little minority in the galleries been considerate and had they had moderately decent manners and had they been good Canadians. The noise they made was out of all proportion to their numbers or their importance in the community.

Blairmore Won Crahan Cup-Score 2-0

Coleman Team Disappoints Supporters Through Dissension—Band Accompanied Coleman Contingent

Supported by Coleman band and a record number of home supporters who travelled to Fernie, Sunday, to see them play in the final of the Crahan Cup against Blairmore, the local eleven blew up to give Blairmore a 2-0 victory and end of the cup for 1935. Dissension among the local players early in the first half spelt disaster for their chances, they having been favorites previous to the game.

The game opened up at a fast clip with play travelling quickly from one end of the field to another, clean kicking and smart passing featuring the play of both teams. The spectators had hardly settled down to watch play before Blairmore drew out Ford and Gardiner lobbed the ball into the net to open the scoring. Encouraged by this early good fortune, Blairmore forced their way in and in a few minutes Gray crossed the ball in front of goal which Parker converted into number two. Coleman were a startled team to find themselves facing a two goal deficit in the first ten minutes. From then on they forced the game and brought off some beautiful scoring chances, only to be foiled at the goal-mouth. Jim Anderson hit the crossbar with a hard drive, Joyce getting the rebound to again hit the crossbar, Dawson finally clearing. Coleman continued to have the greater share of play and Blairmore conceded a foul kick. Jim Anderson took the kick and placed the ball in the goal-mouth, where Joyce headed it, almost scoring, the ball being cleared on the goal-line.

Blairmore were determined to increase their lead and Gardiner scored again, but was raised offside. Coleman again bombarded the Blairmore goal, Hastings crossing smartly and Joyce connected with a hard drive, only to have Stewart make a brilliant save. Ill-feeling was growing among the Coleman team for some reason the players were beginning to make remarks to each other. Hastings drew the ire of the crowd when he rushed Stewart, knocking the latter out and holding up play for four minutes. Kemp handled in the penalty area. Jim Anderson taking the spot-kick which he muffed when he hit the crossbar. Bad feeling on the Coleman team came to a climax when Captain Jim Anderson ordered McCloy, Coleman defence player, off the field. Mc-

Not In Senior League World Series Baseball E. G. Hansell

The executive of the senior hockey club decided to enter the Crow's Nest league as in former years, despite proposals that the club enter the Calgary-Drumheller-Olds circuit. It was felt the travelling and time off required by players would be too great. Many local supporters are disappointed at the executive's decision.

Girl Guides Rally and Inspection

An inspection this evening at 6 p.m. by Mrs. Pardee, provincial commissioner, will be followed by a rally in Columbus hall. An open meeting for parents and others interested will be held in Blairmore on Friday at 3 p.m. Leaders' training classes under Miss McMahon of Toronto will be held in Blairmore and Coleman on Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening.

The Journal made an error in reporting a daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Anderson. It was a son, therefore we give him a brand new start in the columns of The Journal.

Gloy was then ordered back by the Coleman executive and finish playing till the final whistle.

In the second half Blairmore played the better football, Coleman failing to show the flashing play of the first period. Compared to the first half, play was dead from the spectators' standpoint. Neither team looked like scoring and the goalies had very few shots that were at all dangerous. Blairmore were content to hold their two goal lead; this they did to win the Crahan competition by a 2-0 score.

Predict Big Success for Musical Festival

General Committee Met on Monday to Complete Arrangements for Oct. 24-25-26—Banquet Later in Year

Since the year 1925, when the first festival was held in Blairmore, it has progressed in importance and value to the community, and this year promises to be even better than ever.

The adjudicator is Mr. Cyril Hampshire, of Regina, a present organizer of one of the principal churches in that city, and formerly of Calgary and Moose Jaw. He received his education in England and has enjoyed wide experience in the musical world.

The entry list will be very large. Aid in the band competition efforts will be made to have Coleman band participate, while Vulcan band will also be invited to compete.

The chairman this year is Mr. William Kerr, of Bellevue, and Mrs. J. H. Farmer is the efficient secretary, who will gladly answer any requests for information.

The winding-up meeting and election of officers for 1936, following the festival, will take the form of a banquet at the rehnill hotel, at which accommodation for two hundred will be provided. Tickets will be sold at 75c each and will be available to people throughout the Pass who appreciate the splendid work which the festival committee carries on from year to year, and also as a tribute to the teachers and competitors. Further particulars of this will be given following the festival.

Addressed Electors Last Evening

States Social Credit Principles Will Cure Disruption of Present Economic System.

Between 50 and 60 attended the meeting in the Community hall last evening to hear the S. C. candidate, who stated that the present depression is a disruption of social and economic conditions which Social Credit principles would solve. Having only half an hour to speak, he was unable to go into detail, but devoted part of the time explaining that he is opposing Mr. G. G. Coote because he is not a 100 per cent Social Creditor.

Rev. R. C. Taylor opened with an address condemning all other political parties and those supporting them, besides referring to people in Coleman who now laughed and scoffed who would later bless Mr. Aberhart.

The speakers left hurriedly for Bellevue to address another meeting. E. C. Staley, C.P.R. agent at Burmis, was chairman. The meeting opened with a hymn (theme song) and closed with the national anthem. Time does not permit a more detailed report of the addresses.

Controlling The Rust Menace

Very little reflection is required to demonstrate that an expenditure of ten years' intensive work by trained scientists and $600,000 of coin of the realm is a low price to pay for insurance of Western Canada's future wheat crops against the appalling loss which a few days of rust infestation can levy against the farmers of the West.

The $600,000 referred to is the ten years spent in work in the laboratory and the field. It was recently announced, is the cost to the nation to date of producing an unnamed wheat which, according to authorities, is able to withstand a rust epidemic unscathed and at the same time produce a kernel with all the desirable attributes of the best commercial varieties of bread wheat.

Coupled with this announcement was the further statement that this new wheat can be multiplied to a sufficient extent at Dominion government experimental farms and on private lands under government supervision to enable a general distribution of seed to be made to the farmers of the west in 1937.

These announcements were accompanied by a further declaration of considerable importance, namely, that the government intends to retain control of the source of supply of this valuable seed and to see to it that the farmers are not exploited by private concerns in connection with its distribution.

The statement means that the farmers of Western Canada will be able to secure in two years time a substantial supply of seed wheat that is guaranteed to enable them to grow a crop completely immune from ravages by rust, and at a reasonable price, probably at cost.

It is perhaps a coincidence that these announcements were made at a time when Western Canadian wheat crops were hit by the worst infection of rust that the west has known in history but the information should put new heart into the many thousands of farmers who this summer saw their hopes of recovery lighted when millions of rust spores descended on the most promising crop in years and slaughtered yield and grade which meant reducing price to the vanishing point.

The news given in these important announcements may well mean that 1935 will be the last time that Western Canadian farmers have to suffer tremendous loss from rust infestation. The statement is made with caution, however, for although it is not usual for severe rust infestation to follow in successive years, it cannot be stated affirmatively that it will not occur again before sufficient of the new wheat is grown to make a repetition of the 1935 calamity an impossibility.

Results of the work that has been done during the ten years' quest for a rust resistant wheat and laboratory and field trials of the strains which have been produced, however, appear to indicate that the battle against rust has been won by the scientists and agronomists.

There is additional comfort for the farmer, however, in another coincident announcement and that is that some of the five strains of rust resistant wheat which are being increased this year also show a tendency to resist other diseases, those mentioned specifically being stinking smut, leaf rust and one of the varieties is reported as "moderately resistant" to loose smut.

So that it is possible that while the experts have won their right against rust they have at the same time scored at least partial victory in the battle against some of the other diseases to which wheat is heir. To what extent these other disease pests have been overcome while the major conflict was being waged time and experiment alone will prove. It is safe to say, however, that these apparent advantages will be followed up with the same vigor that these scientists have shown in their now successful efforts to overcome the major enemy.

Definite proof that the new wheat is all that is claimed for it exists as a result of field trials and laboratory tests which have been made during the ten years of the quest.

In field plots the new wheat showed up clean and bright while alongside it the other standard varieties of commercial wheat were sick with the disease. Laboratory and commercial tests have proven conclusively that the new wheat has milling and baking qualities equal to that of Marquis and Reward.

The tests have demonstrated equally conclusively that the new wheat has the requisite length and strength of straw, yield, earliness, appearance of kernel and weight per bushel possessed by the best of the present day commercial varieties.

In other words the new wheat fills all the requirements of the type of hard spring wheat which has made Western Canada famous in the world's bread markets and has the additional ability to withstand rust, and perhaps to withstand some of the other diseases which periodically take toll of the Western grain farmer.

Empress Of Ethiopia

Claims She Is Descendant Of Queen Of Sheba

Through all the worries and anxieties brought upon him by Italy's threatened conquest of Ethiopia, Emperor Haile Selassie's most devoted companion and counsellor has been his wife, Empress Walzeru Menen. Gifted with uncommon intelligence, astuteness and foresight, the 41-year-old Empress urged the Emperor not to yield to Mussolini's threats but to defend the kingdom to the last.

Emperor Haile Selassie in Walzeru's fourth husband. Maybe that is why she is called the "Queen of Kings." They have three sons and three daughters. They have been married 23 years, and it is said they have never had a quarrel. The Emperor like most of the higher-caste Ethiopians, is monogamous. Walzeru is his only wife.

"Walzeru" means literally "Lady of Quality." She is the daughter of a famous provincial prince, and has a very dignified and aristocratic bearing. She was educated by private tutors. The "Queen of Kings," who is fat, not fair, and 40, claims to come from the same Hamitic stock as the famous Queen of Sheba who ruled Ethiopia 3,000 years ago. She also claims descent from the glamorous Cleopatra. She is addressed by her ten million native subjects as "Your Serene and All-Just Majesty." She signs herself "The Conquering Lion of Judah hath conquered."

The Empress speaks no language except the ancient Amharic, which is of Semite origin. All attendants who approach her shield their mouths with their white shamma (shawl).

A Strange City

Queer Place In Derbyshire, England Has Only Eight Houses

A strange city may be found in England within two miles of Chesterfield's famous crooked spire. It is another Derbyshire curiosity. Down a winding bridge-path is Tappin City—the queerest and smallest city in the world. It has only eight houses and 25 inhabitants. It is the city of nothings, for there is no church, no chapel, no public-house, no shop, no post office. No electricity or gas is found there—they use oil lamps. How or why it became a city nobody knows, but it is believed to have been founded on the ashes of a Roman camp.

Soviet Aviation Authorities Try Out Parachute Kite

A passenger and freight-carrying "parachute kite," which Soviet aviation authorities said they believed would be able to ascend into the stratosphere, had its first successful trial lifting four tons of cargo. An ordinary freight parachute, with a dome 65 feet in diameter, was used. The load was attached with steel ropes leading from one side of the parachute. The other side bulges upward, giving the lifting power. Longer ropes, running from the bulging side, also were attached to a load which, for passenger-carrying purposes, would consist of a gondola. By manoeuvring the longer rope, the crew, experts said, could steer the parachute and control its ascent and descent.

The whole combination load was called a "parachute train" in the official description by Prof. I. Grotkhoffsky, chief of the experimental institute of the Commissariat of Heavy Industry which is sponsoring the trials. Grotkhoffsky said he believed the parachute could carry explorers into the stratosphere and decided flying in a parachute kite as the safest mode of air travel since the parachute is always opened, assuring a safe descent.

The Machine Age

Opinion Seems To Be That There Will Always Be Unemployment

Evidently the machine age has established a situation wherein a definite percentage of the population is unemployable and destined to state the task of providing for these out of taxation. It is suspected that such a condition is bequeathed on all countries eventually. The American continent, until a few years ago, escaped that penalty because it was new and had the advantage of much natural resources to exploit. With age the handicap of unemployment appears and is ineradicable by the orthodox methods of industry. While every effort ought to be made to provide work for every human being who desires it, there is a growing conviction that the problem is likely to become more acute and that the most satisfactory recourse for governments is to make provision in their budgets for the support of a percentage of the population classes as definitely outside the realm of self-support. —Brookville Recorder and Times.

Exporters Must Be Careful

Warned Against Sending Goods To Italy Without Guaranteed Payment

The Department of Trade and Commerce said it had received a cable from the Canadian Trade Commissioner at Milan warning Canadians against exporting goods to Italy without first taking careful steps to ensure payment. The cable, sent by A. B. Muddiman, urged careful dealing with Italian importers because of exchange restrictions by the Italian government. "No shipment of goods should be made from Canada to Italy unless the Italian importer has given assurance he has obtained an import permit from the Italian authorities allowing the importation," it said.

Transmits Sound And Vision

Television In Germany Covers Distance Of Nearly 60 Miles

A great advance in television service has been achieved by a transmission from Wittenleben to Gildenhall, Germany, a distance of nearly 60 miles. The transmission, both for sound and vision, is stated to have been very good. Dr. M. Hadamowski, head of the German broadcasting service, was seen and heard by the men of the labor camp at Gildenhall, whom he addressed. Afterwards, news pictures were transmitted with results reported to be equally satisfactory.

Tariff Board To Consider Requests As To Price Fixing

Ottawa.—The tariff board takes over its added duties as Dominion trade and industry commission this week. Already several requests have been received relating to price fixing and regulation of production for the board's consideration.

In addition to hearing applications from industrialists relating to revisions of the tariff, and appeals against assessments imposed by the customs department, Chairman Geo. H. Sedgewick and his colleagues, Milton N. Campbell and Charles Herbert, will constitute themselves a court vested with great powers for the regulation of business in Canada. No fewer than 25 acts of parliament come within the compass of the board's operations. All have to deal with laws prohibiting unfair trade practices.

The board, it is understood, is ready to plunge into its new duties. Industrial groups throughout the country have consulted among themselves on matters relating to price-fixing and the regulation of production. Their deliberations and recommendations have been communicated to the board, and on these the board will begin its work.

Administration of Combines Investigation Act is transferred from the jurisdiction of labor department to the trade and industry commission. One of the heavy duties of the tariff board, operating as the trade and industry commission will be to fix prices.

Alberta Appointments

Calgary Residents Get Posts In Civil Service

Edmonton.—Appointments of two Calgary residents to high office in the Alberta civil service were announced by Premier William Aberhart.

Dr. Victor W. Wright has been appointed chairman of the workmen's compensation board, succeeding Alex Ross, who resigned at the premier's request. The office carries with it a salary of $6,000 a year, which amounts to around $5,000 after allowing for statutory deductions. Dr. Wright will have a 10-year contract. The other appointment is that of A. L. Sweeney as civil service commissioner, succeeding Fred Smalles, who also resigned at the premier's request.

Another Storm Hits Japan

Typhoon Kills 48 And About 100 Are Missing

Tokyo.—A typhoon which whirled fresh and destructively across Japan, from Kagoshima to Wondai, killed at least 48 persons, and about 100 were missing.

Several ports in the inland sea reported that fishing craft were missing, and the steamer Tongwaga Maru, with a crew of 13 and 19 passengers, also was missing.

The typhoon was the fifth death-dealing storm in three months over Japan proper.

Installing McGill Principal
Montreal.—It is expected at least 24 Canadian universities and colleges will be represented at the installation of Professor A. E. Morgan as principal of McGill University Oct. 5. Dr. Robert C. Wallace, president of University of Alberta, Edmonton, will be in attendance.

Ottawa Citizens Bid Farewell To Lord And Lady Bessborough

Ottawa.—To the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" and the last goodbyes of thousands of Ottawa's citizens ringing in their ears, the Governor-General and Lady Bessborough departed for England.

Standing on the rear platform of their railway car as it drew out at funeral pace from the Union station, Their Excellencies and their Canadian-born son, the Hon. George St. Lawrence Neufville Ponsonby, waved to the assembled multitude. The governor-general was obviously stirred by a deep emotion. His eyes glistened with tears.

In the early afternoon a large crowd began to assemble in the vicinity of the station. It was a dull

A Quiet Session

Prince Edward Island's House Of Assembly Meets

Charlottetown.—Another chapter was written into the history of British parliamentary procedure when Prince Edward Island's House of Assembly, filled with 30 Liberal members, met and carried on the affairs of state without an official opposition. It was not a house of "yes-men," however. At least two government supporters served notice on Premier Walter Lea that they were not going to be a rubber-stamp for cabinet-directed policies.

When the money bill, the most important legislation of the special one day session, was being studied in committee under the guidance of the premier, W. H. Dennis, Prince, and H. H. Cox, King's, raised objection to Canada's smallest province providing for $3,000,000 expenditure to refund loans and carry on public works. To give the cabinet this authority two months after taking office would be going directly against the policy of retrenchment which placed them in power, the critics contended.

Absence of an official opposing party helped to speed the work of the session and at an early hour the governor, accompanied by his secretary and aide-de-camp, returned to give His Majesty's assent to the bills passed.

The house was prorogued to meet ordinarily in March, 1936.

New Gold Strike

Made On North Arm Of Great Slave Lake

Edmonton.—A new gold strike west of Yellowknife bay on the north arm of Great Slave lake was revealed to the world when Dr. Fred Julliffe, of the federal geological survey, new out of the north after a summer spent in the northwest territories.

The strike was made September 15 several miles from the Burwash discovery," said Dr. Julliffe. He refused to divulge the name of the prospector who made the strike pending the filing of his official report when he returns to department of mines headquarters at Ottawa.

Dr. Julliffe and his party of 15 student assistants from the University of Alberta, explored an area of roughly 10,000 square miles on the north shore of Great Slave lake and found that 2,800 square miles of the district was underlain by pre-Cambrian sediments and volcanics, relatively favorable for the occurrence of gold and silver deposits.

Dr. Julliffe left Sept. 24 for Ottawa.

Russia Backs League

Will Join Britain And France In Enforcing Covenant

Moscow.—It was authoritatively learned here that the Soviet Union will back the League of Nations no matter what measures may be taken by that body to halt an Italo-Ethiopian war.

The speech at Geneva by Foreign Commissar Litvinoff was ample indication that the Soviet government will join with Britain and France in enforcing the covenant, should Italy invade Ethiopia, it was said. Moscow will contribute its share in applying sanctions should the league decide to proceed with penalties against Italy.

Abolish Ration System

New Decree Is Effective In Soviet Russia

Moscow.—A government decree abolished the ration system of riling some prime food products, cutting prices in open commercial shops.

The decree constitutes an important step toward liquidation of the present double sales system whereby workers make purchases in "closed" ration shops and the general public buys in open shops.

Prices of the two have differed widely, workers getting the benefit of extremely low rates.

The decree abolished ration shop sale of meat, sugar, fish, butter and potatoes and threw all buying of these products into open shops, substituting one fixed price for the previous double price system.

The new price scale reduced beef more than 50 per cent. It now will sell from five rubles up per kilogram. Sugar will be four rubles and 52 kopecks per kilogram as compared with 6.50, and butter was reduced from 24 rubles per kilogram to 15. To prevent speculation, it was announced, no purchaser will be permitted to buy at one time more than two kilograms of meat; two of sugar; a half kilogram of butter or three kilograms of fish.

Will Discuss Trade Pact

United States Minister To Canada Called To Washington

Washington.—Norman Armour, United States minister to Canada, has been called to Washington, it was learned to discuss phases of the proposed American-Canadian reciprocal trade pact.

William Phillips, under-secretary of state, told reporters that Mr. Armour had been recalled to discuss some features of the proposed pact, but declined to say exactly what the discussion had been.

The proposed pact is designed to expand trade between the two countries through mutual reductions in tariffs and elimination of trade barriers. State department officials said, however, that it was expected to be some time yet before it would be possible to conclude the agreement.

Veregin Resigns

No Longer Head Of Brotherhood Of Doukhobors

Saskatoon.—Peter Veregin, for 10 years president of the Christian Community of the Universal Brotherhood of Doukhobors in Canada, stated here that he had severed all connection with the community. He declared that he stood now as a private Canadian citizen. He had no intention of leaving the country, he said.

Mr. Veregin, who has been virtual ruler of the sect in Canada since the death of his father in a British Columbia railway accident, said he had tendered his resignation about six months ago. He would not disclose any reason for his action. He is now on his way to Montreal.

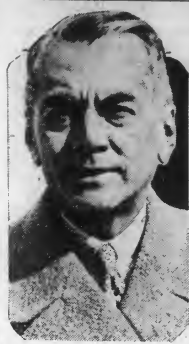

Favorable To Canada

Winnipeg.—As a result of the 1931 trade agreements, the trade balance between Canada and Australia is now three to one in Canada's favor, L. R. MacGregor, Australian trade commissioner in Canada, stated here. Australia is Canada's third best world market, he said.

Have License Suspended

Toronto.—Drivers involved in fatal motor accidents will have their license suspended for 30 days and then will have to pass another operating test before their permit is returned. Hon. T. B. McQuestion, minister of highways, announced here.

FILIPINO PRESIDENT

By an overwhelming majority, Senator Manuel Quezon, above, was elected first President of the new Philippines Commonwealth. Vice-President Camar, of the United States, will attend the inauguration exercises on November 15, when Quezon will take office for six years.

Mussolini Opposed

Report From Italy Of Some Opposition To War Plans

Paris.—French newspapers reprinted a story from The London Referee saying Prince Umberto, the Italian throne, is opposed to Premier Benito Mussolini's conflict with Ethiopia.

This report was described as utterly false in Rome and London by authoritative Italian spokesmen.

There is a possibility, the story said, of General Italo Balbo, governor of Libya and Italian air hero, leading a revolt against It Duce.

Balbo, whose relations with the royal family are excellent, is also opposed to the Ethiopian campaign," the story asserted. "A large number of Italian superior officers share his view."

Farewell Banquet

Governor-General And Countess Of Bessborough Are Honored

Ottawa.—A farewell banquet was given by the government of Canada to the Governor-General and Countess of Bessborough.

The term of office of the Earl of Bessborough as the king's representative in Canada expires shortly.

It was an affectionate farewell at which, in addition to Sir George Perley, who presided, there was a distinguished gathering of representatives of the state, the diplomatic corps, the church, the judiciary and the civil service with their wives.

Responding to the toast proposed by Sir George Perley, the governor-general dwelt on the happy relations he had enjoyed during his four years in Canada.

Hours Of Labor Set

Legislation Will Be Brought Into Effect October 5

Ottawa.—Legislation for limitation of the hours of labor in certain industrial undertakings in Canada will be brought into effect on Oct. 5. Regulations for the carrying out of the measure have been drafted.

Based on a 1919 convention of the international labor organization of the League of Nations, the legislation constitutes part of the reform program brought down by the government at the last session of parliament.

RECEIVING THE KING'S CUP

Pilot T. Rose, driving a Miles Falcon machine, won the King's Cup Air Race "round the British Isles" this year, and is shown receiving the coveted trophy from the hands of Sir Phillip Cunliffe-Lister.

Australia Makes Reduction In Duties On Canadian Products

Market Zones For Coal

Says Plan Would Result In Increased Output

Drumheller, Alta.—The Villiers national coal policy, which would divide Canada into three market zones, was advocated here by Jesse Gouge, pioneer Drumheller valley coal operator, at a hearing of the Alberta coal commission.

Mr. Gouge told Sir Montague Barlow, English business expert heading the commission, that under the policy importers of coal would be licensed by the Dominion government and free importation would be permitted into the central zone, Ontario, but would limit eastern and western areas.

Adoption of the Villiers scheme would do away with the present subventions on domestic and steam coals, Mr. Gouge contended. The advantage to the mines from this policy would be 10 times greater than that which would accrue from the subvention on coal to Ontario, he continued. Subventions are paid by the Dominion government.

At present 30,000 tons are shipped annually to Ontario, the Drumheller operator said, while the market zoning plan would mean from 250,000 to 500,000 additional output each year from the domestic mines and more than that from the steam mines of Alberta.

Would Ban Canadian Hay

English Farmers Contend They Produce Enough To Meet Demand

Alton, Hampshire, Eng.—A resolution calling for the prohibition of hay imports from the dominions and foreign countries was passed at a grievance meeting of farmers here.

It was contended sufficient hay was produced in Great Britain to meet home demands.

Speakers emphasized the "galling" effect on farmers when they saw their land being used for army manoeuvres and army horses being fed Canadian hay. It was declared five camps were being supplied with Canadian hay, amounting to 1,000 tons, while only one camp sought tenders from local farmers.

Canadian average hay exports to England over a period of years run from 15,000 to 20,000 tons annually.

Research Foundation

Establish Laboratory In Kingston To Study Medicine

Ottawa.—The Canada Gazette carried a notice Dr. Henry C. Connell, Kingston, Ont., "Emshi" discover in the research fight against cancer; Dr. J. C. Connell, his father, and B. J. Holsgrove, technician, have incorporated a research foundation.

The institution will be known as the Henry Connell Research Foundation, Limited, capitalized at $50,000, with headquarters in Kingston. The notice of incorporation said the object of the institution will be to establish laboratories for study and research in medicine, particularly in connection with discoveries of Dr. Henry Connell.

Ottawa.—The department of trade and commerce made public called advice from Melbourne showing the Australian government had made important abolitions and reduction of prime products on numerous Canadian products exported to the Antipodes.

New tax schedules made public in connection with the Commonwealth's budget abolished prime duties on five Canadian products, crude asbestos, bronze powders, drugs and chemicals and printing paper, including newspaper and government motion picture scenic films.

Removal of prime on newspaper, asbestos and on bronze powder will enable them to enter Australia free as the Commonwealth assesses no other taxes on them. Annual values of the goods shown in the schedule, published in last fiscal year's Canadian export figures are: Newspaper, $6,804,751; book paper, $124,924; asbestos, $54,899; drugs and chemicals, $27,532. The Dominion exports only small quantities of bronze powder.

Prime duties correspond to excise duties of three per cent. Canada levies on all imports from foreign countries. In Australia, however, the duties are variable and are applied before regular customs duties. They are used solely for revenue purposes.

Restless Wheat

Manitoba Said To Be Purchasing Seed From Minnesota

Minneapolis.—Restless wheat grown from seed developed at the University of Minnesota on the Canadian farm of Hans Liljedorf has found a ready market this fall in the government of Manitoba itself.

Liljedorf, who operates a 230-acre farm near Arnaud, Man., planted the acreage to Thatcher wheat—developed after years of research by Dr. H. K. Hayes, University of Minnesota agronomist.

In the midst of vast fields of wheat shrivelled by the black stem rust, Liljedorf's wheat escaped the disease almost completely and yielded more than 30 bushels to the acre.

The government of the province authorized purchase of 5,000 bushels to be used as seed.

The Federal Vote

Results Should Be Quickly Available After Closing Of Polls

Ottawa.—Although various adaptations of proportional representation and the single transferable vote are used in some provincial elections the Dominion general election Oct. 14 will be conducted on the traditional single-vote system.

Electorates will have only one choice between the contending candidates. They will mark an "X" opposite the name of the candidate they favor and the candidate with the largest number of "X's" will be elected. There are no second or third choices.

With the single-vote system in operation throughout the Dominion on election day results will be available probably for all constituencies within a few hours of the closing of the polls.

League Solemnly Warns Italy And Ethiopia Against War

Geneva.—The council of the League of Nations solemnly warned Italy and Ethiopia against war.

At the same time it constituted itself into a committee to draft a report with recommendations for settlement of the East African conflict and to consider if "anything further can be done to safeguard peace."

Should either country start hostilities before December 4, the league indirectly warned, it will be considered to have committed an act of war against all league members. This would automatically call for punitive steps.

This came as the council by a unanimous vote, from which the Italian delegates refrained, decided to proceed under article XV of the covenant. It ruled this article was in operation as from September 4.

London.—The deadlock between Premier Mussolini and the League of Nations must come within the next 10 days, it was predicted in some official quarters, the break coming with Italy's resignation from the league and the simultaneous push of its armies into Ethiopia.

Despite the League of Nations' deliberations under article XV of the league covenant, official Britain saw no hope that It Duce would hold his Italian legions in check until December.

Article XV, calls for council recommendations. Should article XV and its accompanying recommendations be disregarded by a member nation—such as the advance of Italy's troops before Dec. 4—Article XVI—describing such disregard as an act of war—would automatically be invoked.

Other foreign office officials clung to the hope that Mussolini will finally be overruled by the gravity of his East Africa adventure and make some olive-branch gesture to the league at the last minute.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

YOU CAN WORK your "fool head" off in a cause; you may sacrifice time, stay up late at nights, rob your family of your society and debar yourself of the comforts of home life, all in the public service, and the only thanks you may get will be: "More darned fool you to do it." Materialism prevails over idealism when it comes to rewarding those who fight most in the interests of the people. Ever since the Lord was crucified, history has been repeating itself in this respect, and for long before that it was the rule.

POLICE DOGS, so called, though a better name would be wolves, because of their propensity to attack only when they are in twos and threes and never singly, incur much annoyance through their vicious attacks on other dogs and in some cases children. Many cities impose licenses sufficiently high to really penalize the owners, and their running at large is prohibited. Most of them are of a vicious type, and a cowardly attack was made on a valuable Chesapeake dog last Friday, by two of the police breed. The owner of the attacked dog would have been within his rights had he slaughtered the attackers. They should not be allowed at large, on penalty of a warning the first time and a fine, and the second time—well, a trip to the lethal chamber would be the best solution.

IT ISN'T QUANTITY that is the deciding factor—QUALITY is usually of greater importance. One good quality suit, or any other article of merchandise, is worth more than a dozen shoddy or inferior quality articles. A CHEAP thing is often DEAR. If you buy on a price basis only, don't grumble if you find later you have been "stung."

THERE are always the parasites and the barnacles which fasten themselves on to a city, town or village after the pioneers have made it possible for them to live. It is time that a halt was called to the imposition on frugal tax-payers by those who would rather loaf than work.

COLEMAN Wants a government building. In Kelowna, Penticton, Sylvan Lake, just to mention a few places, tenders are being called for the erection of Government buildings or other public works. Never has the Federal or Provincial government spent a cent in Coleman. What is needed is a political organization with influence to put forward the claims of this place. The only way to get something is to go after it, and political influence is the weapon mostly used, if the truth must be told. Coleman has just sat back and waited. Such a policy seldom produces anything.

THERE ARE SOME who ignore their debts and those who extended accommodation when they most needed it. They spend the money which should be applied on debts in non-essentials and luxuries. It is absolutely unfair, and as a result a number are having their wages garnished. If debtors would play fair, such measures would not be necessary.

SPORTS COMMENTATORS in Calgary do not favor Coleman entering the Southern Alberta hockey league in competition against Calgary, Olds and Drumheller. They point out that Coleman is thriving at the present time, and that the local Canadians are financially able to make the road trips; but how are financial affairs of Olds, Drumheller and Calgary? They also state the Canadians are an unknown quantity and infer should the Canadians not come up to standard time and money would be uselessly spent. There is a touch of "high-hating" about this. Coleman last season proved its merit to play in the senior league, and the hockey association should do something more about it than heed the blatter of the commentators.

SPORTS FANS and others will be regaled with baseball scores, now that the world's championship series is being played. Sweepstakes add to local interest. Sports play a very large part in the lives of people. Though they may not see the games, radio descriptions by sports announcers visualize the sports battles to millions who for a few days will be as intensely interested as the British people are over their cup tie games in Association football and test cricket matches.

The party of British educationists touring Canada passed through Coleman on Train No. 12 last Friday. They were accommodated in a sleeper and a dining car. They were so interested in their meal as they passed through Coleman that they hardly looked out of the car windows.

Which reminds one of the last tour of the Prince of Wales through Canada. He returned east from a visit to the coast via the Kettle Valley railroad. A

The train went through at a fast clip, barely slowing down for the sharp curve east of the station, and the only person seen apart from the train crew was a visitor among the royal party who was sitting out on a platform looking well-stewed. They certainly didn't see the Prince. He may have been asleep.

Joe Zuzula, a pupil in Cameron school, sent in a map of Europe to the school exhibits in Calgary Exhibition and Stampede, and was awarded first prize. This is very creditable, as there were many entries.

The Salvation Army hall was very effectively decorated for their annual Harvest Home, an arch over the platform built up of products of the field and farm, surmounted by the crest of the Army, being illuminated by electric lamps which gave a particularly attractive effect. Lieutenants Fitch and Pierce, the officers appointed early this summer, were complimented on their energy by Major Acton, divisional commander on his recent visit.

A hint on store lighting—It should be so arranged as not to throw glares or shadows. Remember, too, that a lighted window is a salesman that will keep going till midnight or later, long after all human salesmen have left the job. The average passer-by stops at a window for only 14 seconds; consequently don't clutter the window so full or make the display so complex that the gazer must take longer than that to grasp its simple significance.

To Shorten Ocean Trip

Irish Free State Plans Ship-to-Shore Planes

London will be brought within three days of New York when civil aviation plans which are being devised by the government of the Irish Free State come into operation—possibly next year.

The scheme aims at a service of high-speed aircraft of the Douglas type, to intercept the big Atlantic liners off the west coast of Ireland and to speed the passengers to London, with the saving of a full day of travel time.

With ships of the type of the Queen Mary and Normandie the Anglo-Irish air ferry will make London and New York a matter of a mere weekend trip.

From Galway on the west coast of Ireland to Southampton by liner is at present a full day's journey, with an additional two hours to London. The new air link would bring Galway within three hours of London.

It is proposed to use amphibious machines.

From Dublin the idea is to form a new air link not only with London but also with Paris, Brussels, and Berlin.

Ships Attract People

Many Feel Personal Loss When Vessel Makes Last Trip

It is odd how inanimate things sometimes attract. They seem almost to have character and personality. A case in point is the famous liner Mauretania. "The Old Lady of the Sea," as the vessel was called, has a marvelous record and those engaged in shipping felt a peculiar attraction to her. When she last sailed from New York for her farewell voyage, the dean of the New York pilots gave up a holiday in order to escort her out of the harbor. Just 28 years ago the same pilot guided the vessel into New York Harbor on her maiden trip, and when she steamed down the Narrows of the Hudson on her last trip he brushed tears from his eyes—A good ship does things like that to men.—Boston Post.

Hunting King's Fortune

Group Of English Chemists Searching For Gold And Jewels

Search for a legendary fortune of gold and jewels believed to be hidden in a secret passage beneath the ruins of Beeston Castle, Cheshire, England, is being carried on by a group of young Northwich chemists and engineers. King Edward II. is said to have hidden part of his private fortune and jewels in the 360-foot well of the castle before a voyage to Ireland. Some historians say, however, that a great deal of it was seized and used to put Henry IV. on the throne.

HARVESTING IN SASKATCHEWAN AT 20 BELOW!

Just about the middle of December, one of the most unique and interesting annual harvests to be garnered on the North American Continent will be in full swing. No! Not wheat—but Mineral Salts. The scene will be in Little Manitou Lake, Wapiti, Saskatchewan. The harvesters will be the employees of the Department of Natural Resources of Saskatchewan, and the harvest itself will consist of the tiny crystals of mineral salt which form in Little Manitou Lake each year at "freezes-up." It is one of the essential conditions that the harvest be completed within a period of ten days. When the Prairie winter comes in real earnest, and the thermometer shivers down to 20 below zero, the Departmental men, warmly attired, and wearing waist-high rubber boots, gather up these crystals with specially constructed shovels, and store them in the Government warehouse at Watrous, from where they are later distributed. The medicinal qualities of this saline lake, known for many years, are becoming more and more widely recognized, and as a consequence these harvest operations are assuming ever-increasing proportions, and the Lake is proving to be one of the Province's most important natural resources.

Munitions Control

United States To Supervise War Implements Industry

The U.S. national munitions control board was set out to formulate rules for the United States government's first attempt to supervise the war implements industry.

At the call of Secretary of State Hull, the board's statutory members—the secretaries of the treasury, war, navy and commerce—will organize to:

1. Register before Nov. 30 all manufacturers and exporters of arms, munitions and implements of war in the country, with their firm name, place of business, and products.
2. Require licenses before any future consignment of munitions can be shipped to foreign nations in peace time.
3. Define what products should be placed in the category of "arms, munitions, and implements of war."
4. Make available to President Roosevelt all arms data which may be of use to him in proclaiming an embargo on munitions shipments in the event of hostilities between any nation.

Comes From Many Sources

Canada Supplies Only Part Of Binder Twine Used

The binder twine being used to harvest the grain crop comes from a number of sources. Canadian made twine supplies a large part of the domestic demand and considerable quantities made in the Dominion are exported to other countries, but binder twine from several other countries has come to share the Canadian market. Imports are from Great Britain, Ireland, Holland and recently from Belgium and Germany.

England's Wheat Acreage

A considerable increase in wheat acreage has resulted from the Wheat Act in England and Wales, from 1,288,000 acres in 1932 to 1,660,000 in 1933 and 1,771,000 in the present year. Meanwhile the oat crop has been reduced by 205,000 acres.

Courageous Persons

Keeping Up The Morale, And Looking Ahead With Optimism

We have been hearing so much about "sharing the wealth" in the last few months that most of us probably have lost sight of those courageous persons who have been helping to share hard times. Many clergymen, for instance, besides drawing small stipends, have kept up the morale of their parishioners and congregations by looking ahead with optimism.

A Presbyterian minister who deserves commendation at the moment has accepted a call in the province of Quebec in the knowledge that he is to receive $450 a year plus "the utmost the congregation can do to meet the balance." The balance is the difference between $450 and $1,600, the larger sum being the rate fixed by the assembly as appropriate to the particular church.

One hesitates to suggest that this preacher is gambling. Rather, he has faith in the Dominion and its citizens. He sees Canada coming back, with the labor market gradually absorbing present jobless men and women. He believes that the Dominion is his fellow men.—Windsor Star.

Grows Huge Grape Vine

German Boy Planted Riding Switch Left By Customer

Thirty-five years ago a Dr. Dick of Diamond Creek, Victoria, was out riding near Heidelberg, Germany. He left his riding switch behind at a smithy's where he was having his pony shod. The smithy's lad recognized the switch as a grape vine cutting. He planted it in his cottage. Now it has grown to a full vine 31 yards long extending over the fence across a line and along the eastern wall of a hotel.

Explanations And Comments

Courageous—Speaking Enjoined, Jeremiah 1:6-10. In the thirteenth year of Josiah's reign (about 628 B.C.), Jeremiah, the son of a priest, became conscious of a divine call to the prophetic office. It is natural to understand that he had long meditated upon his country's sins and had felt impelled to denounce them, but was most reluctant to undertake the task. The inward struggle which took place in his sensitive and shrinking heart when something different from his ordinary consciousness made him certain that he was destined to be the prophet of woe, he testified to in a dialogue between God and himself.

"Ah, Lord Jehovah! behold I know not how to speak; for I am a child," he said. He was not a child in years but he lacked experience, he feared he had not the ability to speak, he distrusted himself. In the jargon of to-day, he had an inferiority complex. "Say not, 'I am a child' for I shall be the answer to his troubled thoughts that came to him. He was not a child in years but he lacked experience, he feared he had not the ability to speak, he distrusted himself. In the jargon of to-day, he had an inferiority complex. SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and misses the path Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They ascend the hill, look around, and then on to Cousin Columbine's. There Mark Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nancy writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all the money they could spare to help her.

Nancy and Matthew Adam go Christmas shopping in a neighboring town. On their return to Pine Ridge, Nancy is amazed to see the Columbine residence all lit up, and asks Matthew if he knows why. He said: "Let's go in and see. Then Nancy learns that she is having her debut, but in a different setting than had been planned for her in Boston.

Nancy's parents and friends gave her liberal support to her request for books, and a sizeable box arrived in due course. Father Adam painted signs for the library, and the Adams boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorations to make the room look presentable.

Jack Nelson, Matthew Adams, and Nancy go to the prairie home of Matthews' uncle for the ride, and after Nancy and Jack leave for home, they are caught in a blizzard.

Now Go On With The Story

Where that empty milk can came from they never knew; but for a while it created not only diversion, but a festive warmth that was dearest welcome. With the aid of a pocket knife Jack ripped the leather covering from the seats, and used excelsior stuffing for a fire. School books came next, but not until darkness was descending and all hope of seeing the missing driver was given up. "I'd go for help," Jack told his sister grimly, "but even if the road weren't drifted, I'd never make it with night coming on. We've been here about four hours, haven't we? It seems a lifetime already, and these youngsters have been here a good while longer. If things aren't better in the morning I'll have to go, Nancy. Have you noticed" (he lowered his voice), "those twins are getting drowsy, both of 'em; and so's Paul Evans. I can't tell whether they're just sleepy, or—or— Look here, sis! It's up to us to keep them moving!"

Darkness came fast; but slowly, terribly slowly, it seemed to Nancy, hour after hopeless hour dragged on. Wild wind still raged about them, and at the back of the bus a snow-drift had collected, and Jack, through the broken window and making their cramped space smaller still. Though all worked desperately to keep the fire burning, a sudden, especially fierce gust had blown it out; and there were no more matches. Jack had long since relinquished his sheep-lined jacket; and Nancy's knitted skirt was pinned securely about a shivering boy.

Pretext at games—prancing up and down the aisle—anything to keep blood circulating in those small, cold kiddies, was kept up valiantly; but as night descended the children who were not crying had dropped asleep, huddled together in a corner, and tears of fright and pity dimmed Nancy's eyes as she looked down at them.

Through that interminable night a grim and silent Jack kept moving constantly, stopping at every turn to rub the legs or arms of some small sleeper. Nancy, exhausted, sat for a time, holding within her coat a boy of seven who whimpered with the cold. Later, when a semblance of warmth returned to him and he dropped asleep, she too arose to rub the legs of the crowded quarters, and like her brother, chafe numb hands and feet.

Down came at last, and the storm had not abated.

"But we're alive," said Nancy, teeth chattering as she tried to speak. "We're all alive!"

Jack faced her suddenly. Almost it seemed that he was angry.

"And how long will we last? How long, I ask you?" He raised a foot and she saw a bare leg above the shoe. "I put my socks on Joey Miller three hours ago when you were nodding. That boy's all in Nancy; and some of these little girls won't live the day through unless help reaches us. If we had food it might put new life into them; but every lunch pail's empty—and—"

He stopped, silenced by a moan from some one in the huddled mass, and lifting a child, worked at her stiff legs in desperation. It was, Nancy saw, the twin who wore her sweater; and suddenly the girl was pulling off her woolen stockings while Jack protested: "You keep those on, sis! Say, are you going crazy? Do you want to freeze to death? You're in your thin silk undies now. I know it. I saw you sneak out of that knitted thing a while ago. Damn you, Nancy Nelson, you keep those stockings on!"

Nancy said nothing. Jack was, she understood, half crazed with anxiety for all those helpless children and herself as well. Slipping bare feet into her shoes again, she knelt to pull her warm hands over the icy legs of the small sufferer; while the girls, watching in silence, struggled out of her coat and buttoned it about her little sister.

Nancy threw her a smile, a drawn, sad smile that "Cousin Columbine wouldn't have recognized."

"Come keep me, Evelyn," she said gently. "We must wake some of the little ones and keep them moving."

One after another they got them to their feet, those weary youngsters. Some, unable to understand, protested, weeping. Others did their best to help. It was nearly noon when, as the wind subsided, Jack said the words that struck terror to his sister's heart.

"I'm going now, Nancy." His voice trembled a little. "As I see it, there's no other way. Keep up your courage; and for God's sake, Nancy, keep fighting. Unless the wind starts up again I'll reach that ranch in a few hours."

"And—if you don't?"

Their eyes met, and Nancy knew her brother realized how slim a chance he had. Her lips trembled; but he made a gesture toward the children.

"I know—but I can't let them die, Nancy, while there's a chance to save them. Bill," (turning to the boy who wore his jacket), "I'm going for help and it looks as if I'd have to take that coat. No, I won't need the socks" (as the little boy stooped bravely to remove them). "Tom Osgood, you keep the kiddies moving. I'm counting on you older ones to help."

"Look here," spoke up the boy suddenly, "you find a fence, Jack, and follow it if you can. Dad told me once that if ever I got caught out in a blizzard, to find a fence and just hang onto it. And if you run into a mail box you'll know a gate is somewhere near. Gosh! Jack, I—I sorter wish you wouldn't go."

Jack forced a smile.

"Now don't you worry, kid. I'll get there sure, so long as the wind stays quiet. You just help Nancy every way you can; and whatever happens, don't go to sleep. Keep thinking that by night we'll be safe home. Good—good-bye—every one."

He did not look at Nancy as he strode away. The girl knew that he did not dare to; and in another moment his tall form was blotting out. What fate would meet him, alone, on those terrifying plains, she wondered, tears stinging her eyelids. And (with a clutch of fear), was the wind rising?

Time passed, interminable hours that seemed unending. The dreaded wind died down, returned, and died again, not to return. No one could say just when the blizzard ceased, for by one the children were succumbing to the portentous drowsiness. Once Nancy succumbed herself, to be aroused by the frantic, pounding fists of Tommy Osgood.

The cold was still intense when that second clutch arrested the prairie; but the whimpering voices were hushed in an ominous silence. Most of the children had given up, now, completely spent with cold, and hunger, and even fright. For there had been strange happenings since Jack's departure. Twice they rejoiced at the sound of approaching horses, only to find that their ears must have deceived them. Two of the children had "seen" the school-house, and, as the mirage faded, burst into tears of disappointment.

Working courageously on icy arms and legs, Nancy knew, a sense of terror creeping through her, that she was giving out. Her eyelids kept closing against her will. At times it seemed impossible to drag them open. Her hand were numb; her bare legs curiously lifeless.

High Speed On Roads

Safe Driving Is Public Responsibility

States Sir Malcolm Campbell

Sir Malcolm Campbell, the world record-holder for auto speed, during the course of a speech at a luncheon given in his honor in New York, declared that fast driving had no place on regular highways and that road safety was a public responsibility. He further added, "I am the last person in the world to suggest high speed on the road." This is excellent advice from one who has proved that he can travel faster than anyone else.—Brantford Examiner.

A Clever Photographer

Had Brilliant Idea When He Mistold Customer's Address

A young man living at Weingarten, in Wurttemberg, had himself photographed, but the photographer mistold the address, so that the photograph should have been forwarded. What was the photographer to do? He stuck a proof of the photo on the outside of the envelope and added the words "To this gentleman in Weingarten." The photographs reached their correct destination safely.

Preserving Old Types

Specimens of local breeds that are becoming extinct are to be preserved in the museum at Gloucester, England. A typical Old Gloucester heifer has recently been added, and it is intended to provide representative specimens of several other local breeds. Among those already in mind are a Berkeley two-spot pig, a Cotswold sheep and a Cotswold cat.

Customer—"You certainly could, but let's get the present fixed up first."

AIR CELL battery
lives on air
for 1000 hours..

Here is the "A" battery which has revolutionized the radio industry. It is making the battery set as efficient and as simple to operate as an electric receiver.

Eveready Air Cell needs no recharging. It energizes itself by "breathing" oxygen—it literally "lives on air" for 1000 playing hours.

With the Air Cell there is no gradual slackening of power which so often spoils radio reception. It maintains itself at full strength to the end.

Don't envy your city friends who have electrically operated radio sets. Now you can have the same clear reception with no trouble or bother. That is, if you buy a new Air Cell Radio.

These new sets, now made by all Canadian radio manufacturers, use the Eveready Air Cell "A" battery which does away with storage batteries and needs no recharging. The amazingly long life of the Air Cell—with no upkeep costs—gives you true economy.

Eveready Layerbilt "B" Battery is the ideal companion.

Interference Not Allowed

Radio Howlers Will Not Be Tolerated

France is conducting a vigorous campaign against radio "howlers", people who interfere with their neighbors' radio reception. In one month the French Ministry of Posts and Telegraphs has caught and punished 13,465 howlers. It is an offense in France to hinder radio reception, and the purchase of what is called "anti-parasitic" apparatus is obligatory in cases where refrigerators, elevators and similar equipment cause inconvenience.

Will Not Face Storm

Experiment Was Conducted In France With Carrier Pigeons

Carrier pigeons won't carry on in a storm thus shattering another cherished illusion of devotion to duty. An experiment was carried out by French military experts and pigeon fanciers in the Bases-Landes radio station here where atmospheric conditions similar to an electrical storm were produced. This was done by generating powerful "charged" Hertzian waves of 200 amperes. At the same time several hundred military pigeons were released from their cages. Sensing an electrical storm, the pigeons hovered about the aerial a few minutes, then flew right back to their cages. They refused to budge until the "storm" was over.

Little Helps For This Week

Even so Father, for so it seemed got in Thy sight. Matthew 11:28.

Let nothing make thee sad or fretful,
Or too regretful;
What God hath ordered must be right,
Then find in it thine own delight.

If we listen to our self-love we shall estimate our lot less by what it is than by what it is not, shall dwell on its hindrances and be blind to its possibilities, and comparing it only with imaginary lives shall indulge in flattering dreams of what we would do if we had the power, give if we had wealth, and be if we had no temptations. If we yield ourselves unto God and sincerely accept our lot as assigned by Him, we shall count up its contents and disregard its omissions, and be as feeble as a cripple or as narrow as a child's, we shall find in it resources of good surpassing our greatest aims, and sacred claims that will keep awake our highest will.

St. Alban's Women's Guild will hold a sale of home cooking in Rushton's store on Saturday, Oct. 5, at 3 to 6 p. m.

Just Cause For Complaint

It is about time the Fernie football executive took steps to curb the hoodlum practices of a number of small boys who frequent the football games in that town. On Sunday a number started to throw rocks at each other, which resulted in one of the boys throwing a rock through Harry Vincent's car, breaking a door window and resulting in much expense for the owner, who was not present at the time. For the past two years the favorite sport of these boys has been to throw small rocks at the opposing goalkeepers causing them much torment. The sooner these hoodlum practices are stopped the better it will be for opposing players and car owners alike.
